Committee investigation and hearing ex Al-Qaeda terrorist to board a passenge	kamining systemic failure that allowed an apparent r plane with a bomb.
"The House, Committee on Oversight ar	nd Government Reform played a central role in creating the Department of Homeland Security a encourage better information sharing. F very failures that made us vulnerable be Issa said. "When we created DHS, the the Executive that we must go from an a	nd reforming our intelligence community specifically to Recent events have exposed a sobering reality that the efore 9/11 still threaten our homeland security today," re was unanimous agreement here on the Hill and in atmosphere of need to know to need to share. It now st agencies are reverting to their pre 9/11 ways and Issa continued, "That is why I have called Chairman Towns in hopes that we can hold an immediate series of bipartisan hearings and briefings detailing the failure of agencies to share information and utilize databases that could have prevented this terrorist from boarding an aircraft bound for Detroit. There was a breakdown in communication that impacts numerous government entities and this Committee should investigate and hold hearings immediately."
